

Assessment Development and Delivery, Learning Objectives

Overview of Assessment Development Process

- List the phases of assessment development.
Describe the activities occur during each phase of and its value to the assessment development process.
- List different item types
- Differentiate between objective and subjective (construct response) item types.
- Identify common item writing mistakes.

Scoring

- Differentiate between objectively and subjectively (construct response) scored assessments.
- List the requirements for developing and scoring subjective item types.

Test delivery

- Describe the implementation requirements of computer and paper-based assessments.
- Describe the implementation requirements of various assessment delivery location options, such as professional test delivery centers, local test centers, work sites, etc..
- Differentiate computer-based and Internet-based assessment delivery.
- Describe various test administration delivery schedules and implications of each.